

MD Speaks

Union Budget 2023 has the three essential hallmarks of a progressive budget: growth, sustainability, and inclusivity. Not only are these factors required to help the economy recover from the aftermath of the pandemic and inflation, but also boost economic growth.

The budget is well mapped to G20 priorities with increased outlays for switching to green fuel and emphasising on 'women led development' through launch of women-centric schemes. Promotion of Tourism on a mission mode, PPP, medical education & research, Make AI in India are some of other welcome announcements.

It is heartening to see high investment in Infra and capital expenditure. The tax slab rejig is also expected to drive domestic demand and push growth. However, reduction in MNREGA fund allocation amid high rural unemployment could have been bettered.

Overall greater with emphasis on a knowledge-based economy backed by a robust tech ecosystem, the budget is expected to steer growth and accelerate India's development agenda aligned with Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

From the Editor's Desk

Union Budget 2023 is a people-centric budget. It has managed to strike a balance between social development and economic growth. It's reassuring to see the government's focus on financial literacy, green growth, education, infrastructure and 'women-led development.' Launch of Mahila Samman Saving Certificate, a one-time savings scheme for women is a step towards financial empowerment of women.

Income tax slabs announced under the new tax regime are also likely to benefit salaried women and those engaged in formal employment—particularly from the middle-class background—enhancing their capacity to save and take better investment decisions.

The edition presents highlights of Budget '23. Outlining the allocations to various sectors, it attempts to capture our reaction on this annual financial statement.

HEALTH

It's a very Luke-warm budget when it comes to health sector. While new proposals to set-up 157 nursing colleges, a mission to eliminate Sickle Cell Anaemia, focus on R&D, AI, Tribal Groups and skilling courses on medical devices are all encouraging, the budget has limited focus on fast pacing the implementation of some of the flagship schemes announced in previous budgets. The budgetary allocations for schemes under Ayushman Bharat umbrella, remain stagnant. This is concerning as in previous years as well actual expenditure has remained way below the budgeted expenditure. Critical areas of Pandemic Preparedness, AMR, Mental Health, as well as focus required for infrastructure development have remained wanting in the budget.

- Himanshu Sikka

WHAT NUMBERS SAY

Central and State Governments' budgeted expenditure on the health sector reached 2.1 per cent of GDP in FY23 (BE) and 2.2 per cent in FY22 (RE), against 1.6 per cent in FY21. – Economic Survey 2022-23

URBAN DEVELOPMENT

It is great to note that infrastructure investment and green growth are key priorities in this budget. Increase in capital investment is a step in the right direction. The proposed Infrastructure Finance Secretariat should be set up quickly to catalyse private investment for infrastructure. Similarly, the Urban Infrastructure Development Fund (UIDF) announced needs higher outlay and convergence with ongoing urban missions covering tier 2 & 3 cities. We believe that the numerous initiatives under the 'green growth' umbrella need clear alignment with India's INDC with well-defined targets and timelines. The national green hydrogen mission is timely and should aim to go beyond replacing current grey hydrogen demand by 2030, if India wants to lead in this sector.

- Anil Kumar Bansal

WHAT NUMBERS SAY

EDUCATION & SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

Union Budget 2023 is extremely encouraging for the education sector. Ministry of Education has received its 1.12 Lakh Crore, its highest-ever budgetary allocation. These initiatives will not only equip youth with future-proof skills, but also tap into the demographic dividend in the long run. The Government's commitment to a self-reliant India will be strengthened through smart classrooms, precision farming, 5G technology and R&D grants. Employment of teachers in Eklavya tribal schools and setting up of a National Digital Library for children & adolescents will make education accessible for all. CLEAN ENERGY

Union Budget 2023 was tabled with a mission 2024 focused on strengthening India's thought leadership on climate mitigation by renewing its fiscal allocation worth 35K Cr to net zero commitments and ensuring viability gap funding for climate mitigation-related activities. Through a walk-the-talk green growth and green-transition, budget speech, it tries to climate-proof the trinity of jobs, growth, and sustainability but misses patenting the invaluable grains of climate adaptation. Thrust to natural framing and focus on restoration of the mangroves and wetlands spells clear intent but straight mandates to curb climate change called for a razor-sharp imperative. Balanced fiscal consolidation in a changing climate scenario should have targeted increasing climate adaptation actions spending, especially to the rural economy climate resilient.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN

“ The Union budget 2023-24 has made a convincing attempt to prioritise investments in women and girls by facilitating women’s economic empowerment. The Mahila Samman Savings Certificate initiative that promotes a one-time new small saving scheme for women will revitalise the government’s efforts for girls’ and women’s empowerment. However, it will be vital to relook at the mechanisms and build capacities for effective implementation and appropriate utilisation of several of the women-centric schemes – both existing and new ones. ”
